Car racing comes in a variety of different types—but each focuses on specially designed race cars competing against each other under different scenarios. Car racing has been around since 1895 and has become one of the most popular sports in the world. Manufactured in Maranello, Italy—Ferrari is one of the most popular racing cars in existence. The Scuderia Ferrari team is a popular entrant in the Formula One world. In 1993, German race car driver Michael Schumacher drove the Ferrari 412T—winning a Formula One championship—making Ferrari one of the most successful brands in racing. The company also built cars for other car racing events, such as the A1 Grand Prix series, from 2008 to 2009. They also produced the 599 GTB Fiorano and F430 GT driven at the GT racing series during other Grand Prix events. Many successful race cars have been built by Porsche. It produced the legendary Porsche 917 that won two consecutive championships at the Le Mans in 1970 and 1971. Porsche 917 also won the Racing Series World Championship, garnering 8 out of the 10 championships. The Formula One race is considered as the highest form of car racing sanctioned by the Federation Internationale de l'Automobile. In the 2006 season, top speeds of Formula 1 cars were a little over 300 km/h. Within the U.S.—NASCAR races, like the Sprint Cup Series and Daytona 5000, are the most popular race types. Racing cars used in NASCAR racing have a power peak of around 830 BHP at 9000 RPM, with a peak torque of 520 pounds per foot. They are rigidly restricted with regards to allowable parts, materials, dimensions, component minimum weights, and others parts. NASCAR races are typically 300 to 500 miles in length and the design life of an engine for the cars ranges up to 800 miles. Cars used in Formula One racing are single-seat racers, generally featuring 2.4L custom V8s. Ignition and fuel systems are controlled by a systematic, computerized digital engine-management system. With a minimum weight of 95 kilograms, these cars produce a peak power of around 755 BHP at more than 19,000 RPM and a peak torque of 214 pounds per foot. Each Formula One racing car has much fewer restrictions when compared to NASCAR. There are a bunch of different types of car games. Some are simulations, others are racing games, and others still are puzzle games. The genre grew rather quickly on mobile and it's one of the most popular genres in all of mobile. Racing games especially have some of the best graphics of any mobile game so it's a great genre for eye candy as well as customization. There are a bunch of car games out there. Some of them are pretty good. A few are great. Let's take a look at the best car games for Android.Read more:15 best racing games for Android10 best car apps for AndroidAsphalt 9: LegendsPrice: Free to playAsphalt 9: Legends is the latest game in one of the most popular racing franchises on mobile. You get a metric ton of campaign and side missions to complete along with a fairly competent multiplayer. In addition, the graphics are quite good, there is a ton of unlockable content, and you can band together with other racers in clubs. The controls are a little simpler than previous games and that is either good or bad depending on your preferences. It's a fantastic arcade racer, though. You can also try Asphalt 8: Airborne and Asphalt Xtreme if you want something slightly different.CarX Drift RacingPrice: Free to playCarX Drift Racing is a drift racing game. It has a bunch of content for the simplicity of the premise. That includes a campaign mode, over two dozen cars to unlock, ten tracks to play through, and a ghost mode. The ghost mode allows you to race your best time on the tracks you've completed. It does have flaws. There isn't any cloud saving and that sucks. It's also not a very big game. That doesn't make it bad, but it's something to keep in mind.CSR Racing 2Price: Free to playCSR Racing 2 is one of the most popular drag-racing car games on mobile. The meat of the game includes a campaign mode that gets progressively more difficult. It also includes a bunch of cars to unlock as well as an online multiplayer mode. Cars are also customizable and upgradeable for better looks and faster race times Like most freemium games, it has stuff like an energy system that you have to wait for occasionally. The graphics are fantastic, but the game's endgame leaves a lot to be desired.Dirt Trackin 2Price: $3.99Dirt Trackin 2 is a bit of a diamond in the rough when it comes to car games. It features solid mechanics, controls, and customization. The game also comes with five car models, real world as well as fictional tracks, real and fictional drivers, a five cup career mode, three control schemes, and adjustable difficulties. Races can be long, but they're rarely annoying and we like that. The graphics are decidedly old school compared to most games on the list. You're definitely not playing this one for eye candy. However, everything else about it is just great and it's one of the few good car games with a single price tag.Grand Prix StoryPrice: Free with in-app purchases / $5.49Grand Prix Story is an entertaining car game. Players get control of a race team. The goal is to hire good drivers and good mechanics, build increasingly better cars, and win various races. There are some racing elements but it's a simulator for the most part. Over the course of the game, players unlock things more tracks and better parts. Plus, you can't build a single car to win every race so you have to change it up every time. It's a bit more simple than something like Motorsport Manager Mobile 3, but the arcade elements make it more fun in a slapstick kind of way. The free version has in-app purchases and the premium version does not.Read more:15 best Android games available right now15 best action games for AndroidGRID AutosportPrice: $9.99GRID Autosport is one of the newer car games on the list and it's also one of the best. It's a full game for a single price tag so we like it already. The game also comes with over 100 cars, over 100 races, scalable difficulty, and various types of races. This is a port of the original GRID Autosport game from the Xbox 360 and PlayStation 3 days and this version not only comes with the full game but all of the DLC as well. It works with hardware controllers and it's basically as good as it gets in the car games genre.Motorsport Manager Mobile 3Price: $3.99 with in-app purchasesMotorsport Manager Mobile 3 is one of the best Motorsport simulation games on mobile. You play the role of manager for a race team. That means you hire and train drivers, formulate pit stop strategies, and even react to weather changes on the track. Players can watch races or participate themselves if they want. In addition, the game's deep strategy elements can keep you going for a very long time. This is one of the good ones, folks, there is no doubt about it.Need for Speed No LimitsPrice: Free to playNeed for Speed No Limits is the latest mobile game in the acclaimed racing franchise. This one isn't as good as its console counterparts. However, it's not bad for casual racing fans. There are a bunch of cars to unlock, a bunch of places to race, and over 1,000 campaign races. A lot of that is fairly repetitive, but at least the options are there. Don't let the name fool you. There are limits to this game. That said, it's not half bad for a freemium title.Real Racing 3Price: Free to playReal Racing 3 is one of the most popular car games out there. It has also been around for a long time. The game features over 140 cars, time trials, an online multiplayer, and 17 tracks to race through. The game boasts over 4,000 career events. However, with only 17 tracks, it will get repetitive after a while. This is one of the largest, most expansive racing games on mobile. It should provide enjoyment for a while. Just be careful on multiplayer. There is a bit of pay-to-win there.Top Speed 2Price: Free to playTop Speed 2 is the latest game in the popular racing franchise. This one includes decent graphics, plenty of content, and it revolves mostly around drag racing. You can customize and upgrade your cars, unlock over 70 real car models, and engage in the optional multiplayer if you want to. Some other game features include three different maps, various difficulties, and leaderboards. However, the real story here is the customization. The game has thousands of combinations of car parts, decals, colors, and other customizations. It's far from perfect, but most people seem to really enjoy this one.Thank you for reading!
